(Per Steamer Isabel.)

Accidentally a housekeeper made a discovery that may interest our readers. For cooking purposes she beat up some eggs and sugared them. She was called suddenly to the country and only returned four months later. The sugared eggs had not been touched. Expecting to find the mess spoiled or dried up, she was surprised to find the dish, though exposed to the air, as sweet as ever, and she found it as serviceable as if freshly beaten, and besides the ripening greatly improved the quality.

A new fancy of the ladies is a kid boddice fitted as neatly as a glove. It is shaped a little like the Jersey, and will be so closely adapted to the form that it will have to be buttoned with a hook like a shoe. There will be various shades to match the various complexions, and it will be expensive enough to suit the most fastidious.

The British army medical department report that uniformly black troops suffer much more than white men from the evil influences of tropic climates. For example, in the West Indies last year, while the mortality among white soldiers was a trifle more than eight and one-half per thousand, the colored men died at the rate of nineteen per thousand.

Mr. Lakeman has been inspecting the bakehouses in London and letting the people know what he found. Nearly everywhere the ovens were underground, in damp, dark basements or cellars, and the adjoining workrooms entirely unsuited to the purpose. The first prosecution of the proprietor of one of these places under the factories and workshops' Act of 1878, was begun before the Marylebone police magistrate a few days ago. The "damp, musty smell" of a bakehouse in Kentish-town led Mr. Lakeman to pay it a visit and investigate its arrangements. He found that adjoining the kneading-trough was a well filled with black unwholesome water and communicating with the sewer. The rooms were not whitewashed and had no light or ventilation except by the fine of As this was the first prosecution ing the act, the magistrate imposed a bill, says t only 20s., adding that terrible sentence to evil-doers that he hoped the case would be a warning to others. He considered it a matter that especially concerned the workpeople employed, the premises being unfit for occupation and ruinous to health.

Two doctors lately conducted at Grenell, a suburb of Paris, at the expense of a rich Swedish philanthropist, a series of experiments upon pigs, for the purpose of ascertaining the effects of alcohol upon the internal organs of drunkards. Fifteen pig were treated daily with different kinds of liquor, each pig however, being confined to one particular tipple. When they had been killed their vital organs were found to be marked with small white spots resembling ulcers. Their flesh was pronounced sound, but when sent to market it was seized as unfit for food. At last accounts a dispute was going on between the experimenters and the police, the former maintaining that the inspector was mistaken.

The following letter has been received by a gentleman in Manchester from the Duke of Argyll:

"Inverary, Sept. 19, 1882.—Sir: I have no difficulty in answering the question which you put to me in your letter of the 16th. As regards the foreign policy of Her Majesty's present government I see no reason whatever to abate the confidence which was placed in it by those who supported it when it was formed. It was not formed upon the principle of 'peace at any price.' If it had been so formed its composition would have been very different. On the other hand, no cabinet has ever existed in this country whose members have had a greater dislike of war or a greater love of peace. Every war must be judged on its own merits, and not on any abstract principle apart from the circumstances of the case. But if there be any abstract principle applicable to such questions, I am afraid it is a principle which affirms, not the unlawfulness, but alas! the too frequent necessity of war. War has often been, and it will often be, by far the least of two evils. The sword has often represented, and will often represent again, the cause of liberty, of civilisation, of order, and of 'lasting peace.' As far as my knowledge goes, I regard the war in Egypt as a case in point. Your obedient servant, ARGYLL."

J. R. Bond, Druggist, &c., Schomberg writes, "I have sold medicines for over twenty years, and no medicine could give better satisfaction than your Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry." This medicine is the old reliable cure for Cholera Morbus, Dysentery, and all Summer Complaints. 30

A FAMILY MURDERER.

A Philosophical Tailor Strangles His Wife and Four Children.

HE HANGS THEM IN A CLOSET.

The Berlin correspondent of the London Times says:—For the last two days the First District Criminal Court and a jury have been engaged in the trial of a case which would certainly have afforded De Quincy some interesting material for his essay on "Murder as One of the Fine Arts." Berlin has not had to listen to such a sensational and painful story of crimes for a long time, and certainly the black calendar of the city of intelligence is by no means pleasant reading. The chief actor in the present tragedy was a man named Conrad, aged 34, who began life as a philosophic tailor, somewhat after the style of Kingsley's Alton Locke, and after roaming through the gamut of various occupations, including military service, ended by strangling in one night his wife and four children. The which excited the deepest interest, as it was feared that the evidence against him might possibly break down, has disclosed a terrible degree of social depravity well calculated to make the humanitarians of the nineteenth century pause and think Conrad, the "family murderer," as the newspapers term him, is a man, for his station in life, of great force of character, intelligent, enquiring, well read, inventive, ready, and of remarkable self-possession. He had been a diligent reader of the poet Schiller and of the naturalist Charles Darwin, and his desultory course of study had ended in making him like many others of his class in Germany, a believer in nothing whatever. Not only had he renounced all his religious faith himself, but he had compelled his wife to leave the church, and brought up his children in heathen darkness. The struggle for existence grew ever harder with him. He transferred his affections from his own wife to another, an unmarried woman. He denied the paternity of two of his children, and his household became a perfect hell. He wanted to be free to marry the object of his second love, and with one blow he cut the fivefold knot that bound him to his vows. In the night between the 11th and 12th of August last he

while they slept. In the morning the corpses of the mother and her youngest child were found hanging at the back of a door, while the dead bodies of the other three were discovered similarly suspended in the wardrobe. On the mother's bed lay a volume of Schiller open at the poem of the "Kindermorderinn" (child murderess), which the father placed there so as to suggest to the officers of justice that his wife had committed both infanticide and suicide. This was the critical point in the whole case—whether the father or the mother had committed the terrible crime, and but for the judicial habit here of cross-questioning prisoners, there is no saying how far the diabolical craft and coolness with which Conrad planned and executed the deed, with his calm and self-collected demeanour in court, might not have aided him. A letter of triumph, however, which he before the breath could have been long out of his wife's body formed a strong link in an otherwise somewhat fragile chain of circumstantial evidence, so he was found guilty, and condemned to death. His own theory was that, having had a quarrel with his wife on the night in question, he rushed out of her insupportable presence into another room, where he fell asleep, and that then the mother did the fearful havoc. In the morning he sent for a locksmith to pick the lock which he himself had fastened, and he made a most dramatic pretence of weeping and fainting when confronted with the results of his nocturnal handiwork. Fiction, however, yielded to reality when sentence of death was pronounced upon him, and when, altogether collapsing, he had to be brought round with wine.

BEER was the common drink of the Germans in the time of Tacitus, who wrote his "Treatise on the manners of the Germans" about the end of the first century.

THE ambulance is comparatively a modern invention, due mainly to the French. We find no trace of regularly-organized military hospitals until the time of Henry IV.

THE city of London proper covers an area of 1 2 square miles—that is, the area u r the operation of the Metropolita Local Government act. The postal district, however, extends over about 250 square miles, and the police district 690 square miles.

THE name "Old Hickory" was conferred upon Andrew Jackson, in 1813, by the soldiers under his command. There are several accounts given as to its origin; one is that it sprung from his having, on one occasion, set his men an example of endurance by feeding on hickory nuts when destitute of supplies.

"RANGE," in the land system of the United States, is a row or line of townships lying between two successive meridian lines six miles apart, and numbered in order east and west from the principal meridian of each great survey, the townships in the range being numbered north and south from the "base line," which runs east and west, as Township No. 5, N., range 7, W., from the third principal meridian.

THE name "Molly Maguires" is said to have originated from a circumstance that occurred in Ireland. An old lady and her two sons rented a house from a landlord who demanded the rent at a time when they were unable to pay it. They explained the poor circumstances they were in and promised to pay as soon as they were a le. The landlord refused to wait and had the mother arrested, and, being in ill health, she died from exposure. This so outraged the Maguires that they procured guns, and, by lying in wait, killed the landlord and made their escape.

THE investigations of medical scientists in times that are comparatively recent have shown that the time required for the blood to traverse the entire round of the double circulation—that is, through the lungs and the capillary system, returning to the right side of the breast—is much shorter than was believed to be the case. Prof. J. C. Dalton records that the observations of Hering, Poisseuille, Blake and Matteucci on the subject were made, for the most part, by injecting into the jugular vein on one side upon the living animal some substance, like ferrocyanide of potassium, which could readily be recognized by its chemical reactions. Blood was at the same time drawn from the jugular vein of the opposite side, and the interval which elapsed before the appearance of the foreign salt in the blood drawn from this second opening indicated the time required for the blood to pass from the point of injection through the vena cava to the heart, from the right side of the heart through the lungs to the left cavities, from the left ventricle through the carotid arteries and the capillary vessels of the head, and thence downward to the jugular vein on the opposite side. The average results obtained from these experiments were as follows: In a horse, 28 seconds; dog, 15 seconds; goat, 13 seconds; fox, 12½ seconds; rabbit, 7 seconds. In man the complete double circulation, says the same authority, requires from 15 to 25 seconds.

"IS HE a German scholar?" they asked of a Washington belle concerning her lover. "Splendid!" she replied. "He holds a lady beautifully and knows all the figures."

A LECTURER who had just one listener was flattered to discover that he came in to get out of the wet. Umbrella would have cost $1; lecture, 25 cents; 75 cents saved.

JOSEPH RUSAN, Percy, writes:—I was induced to try Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil for a lameness which troubled me for three or four years, and I found it the best article I ever tried. It has been a great blessing to me.

Kidney Complaint.

The secretion from the Kidneys is often loaded with foreign and poisonous matter, a thick brickdust like sediment or a mucous collection forms. The Kidneys are often inflamed and congested causing pain and weakness in the back and many distressing symptoms. Diabetis, Bright's Disease, Dropsy, and all Urinary Complaints are promptly cured by that grand combination of diuretics, alterative tonics, &c. Burdock Blood Bitters. 25

A Word of Caution.

Beware of Opiates and powerful astringent drugs in the treatment of Bowel Complaints, they may lull the pain and check Diarhœa, etc., but are liable to produce inflammation. Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry is guaranteed safe and reliable, even for Infants, and is a specific for Cholera Morbus, Dysentery, Colic, Acute or Chronic Diarhœa and Summer Complaints generally. 27

Messrs. Pfunder & Co., Portland.

GENTLEMEN:—I enclose you P.O.O. for last lot of Oregon Blood Purifier, which came safe to hand. It is a regular CURE ALL. I have got entirely rid of my RHEUMATISM and have cured all kinds of chronic cases by making them go according to the directions, some of them the doctors had given up. Why don't you send a lot out here and start an agency? You could sell any quantity of it, as everybody who has tried it says it is the best medicine they ever took. With many thanks, and wishing you every success,
I remain, yours truly,
W. H. PARSONS,
3m Denver, Colorado.

How it Works.

The purifying and healing properties of Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry impart a healthy tone to the diseased mucous surfaces of the Stomach and Bowels. Its cooling, soothing properties counteract pain, its antiseptic properties correct canker and foul humour, and its tonic astringent nature corrects all exhaustive discharges—Such as Dysentery, Diarhœa, Cholera Morbus, and Summer Complaints generally. 26

"AS THE TWIG IS BENT, SO IS THE TREE INCLINED." The truth of this old adage is forcibly brought to mind when one sees a man or woman disfigured by a crooked spine or stooping shoulders, and one mentally exclaims, if that person had only had proper care when young, that awkward figure might have been avoided. Dr. Gray's Anatomical Shoulder Supporters, Langley & Co., Yates street, sole agents. 2w

EVERYBODY SUFFERS PAIN.—It is the result of sin and a violation of nature's laws. The great Creator of the universe in his infinite mercy has done much to allay the sufferings of his people by giving them out of nature's store-house a "balm for every wound." Such is the Pain-Killer made by Perry Davis & Son; it stops pain almost instantly, it is used both internally and externally, and is of all other pain remedies the oldest and best. *

Dispepsia

is the most common of all diseases, and under ordinary drug treatment the most difficult to cure, it is a chronic weakness of the stomach with indigestion. The sensitive mucous membrane coating the stomach becomes irritated, and nearly all that enters the stomach continues to add fuel to the fire. Heartburn and Sour Eructions, Belching of Wind, Nausea, Headache, Variable Appetite, Costive Bowels, etc., are its prominent symptoms. Burdock Blood Bitters is a positive cure for this miserable disease. 28

Robert A. Wilson, Dispensing Chemist, Brockville, says under date of June 5th, '82. "I have not the slightest hesitation in saying that Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry has given my customers more satisfaction than any medicine in my store for the cure of Summer Complaints, Diarhœa, Dysentery, Pain in the Stomach, Sea Sickness, Piles, etc., you can use my name, etc." 29

CUSTOMS STATISTICS.

The Nanaimo Free Press attacks our article respecting the exports for October in what can scarcely be regarded as any other than a fossilized spirit. It will be remembered that The Colonist said the exports of the port of Victoria for the month of October, including coal, reached the large and unprecedented figure of $675,000. The Free Press objects to this mode of putting the case, because, it contends, the exports of coal should be credited to the port of Nanaimo instead of to the port of Victoria. Now, Nanaimo is a sub-custom station, and reports its transactions to the head office at Victoria where statistics are compiled. If our contemporary would but reflect he would see how absurd his contention is. For instance, would it not be ridiculous if in noting a shipment of treasure the press were to say that Cariboo or Cassiar exported so many thousands of dollars in gold dust when the shipment was made at Victoria? The press can only deal with things as they are. Nanaimo is not a port in the commercial acceptation of the term. When one speaks of the imports and exports of the port of Montreal he refers to articles that are entered and cleared at that port; he does not say so many packages were destined for or produced at such and such a place. In the public interest there should be stationed at one port in the province an officer to receive and compile all the custom house statistics of the province and transmit the same to Ottawa. We do not say whether that officer should reside at Victoria or Nanaimo; but as long as Nanaimo reports to the Victoria custom house just so long must her exports, be compiled as Victoria's.

A FRENCH SORCERESS.

The director of fine arts, in France, has endured no little ridicule by allowing the divining rod to be used at St. Denis for the purpose of discovering the cathedral funds, said to have been secreted in 1793. A Mme. Caillavah, of Montmarte, pretends to the art of thus unmasking concealed treasure, and had found ten shopkeepers credulous enough to advance 100f each, a fifth of which has been deposited as caution money, while the rest is to be devoted to paying the diggers. A kind of convention, says the London "Times," has been concluded between the sorceress and the government, the latter stipulating for all jewels and manuscripts and for two-thirds of the cash. Mme. Caillavah, armed with a rod having a small tube containing some secret composition, bequeathed her by a wizard, directs the operations. It is needless to say that nothing has yet been found. Indeed, there are people who doubt whether a treasure was ever buried in the cathedral and who believe that if it was it did not long remain there. Chateaubriand, moreover, was informed by a monk—an eyewitness—that on the desecration of the royal tombs in 1793, all the treasure and ornaments of the cathedral were carried off to the convention, but the allegation is that a portion of the treasures had previously been buried in the crypt. It is significant, however, that the old lady, despite her pretended powers, is in indigent circumstances; and it seems that 30 years ago she contributed to the expense of similar but fruitless explorations in the ruined abbey of Argenteuil. Her sincerity appears unquestionable, and she asserts that the divining rod acts only when held by a person who has "the fluid." She is now awaiting permission to dig in proximity to the tomb of the Prince de Conde, who died in 1830.

WOMAN'S RIGHTS.

The Elysian fields of the women's rights folks have been found at last, if the statements contained in the German papers concerning a queer religious sect in Finland are true. According to the reports its principal dogma is the supremacy of woman. The members of the sect, whether actually married or only engaged to be married, are required to affirm under oath their willingness to submit in everything to the wife or betrothed and to "confess" to her once a week regularly on a certain day. The majority of the members, it is related with considerable apparent satisfaction, "lead a life of frugality and morality." The women in turn choose a "superior," whose duty it is to see to it that the men live up to their oaths and to punish them in case they go astray. It has been said that "all good Americans go to Paris when they die," but hereafter Finland may be counted on as the post mortem destination of a part of the fair and tyrannical sex.

A DAINTY EVANGELIST.

A Birmingham, Ala., clergyman announces by advertisement that the church of which he is a pastor is for white people only and that colored people are not expected to attend. Perhaps the fastidious divine did not recall the fact that Africa gave to the early church some of its most learned and fearless evangelists—the Alexandria, British guns have been pulverising, having furnished it with more than one missionary bishop of the highest eminence, while probably the whole company of the apostles were as swarthy in complexion as any to be found in the ranks of Arabi. What kind of notions of Christian work this dainty evangelist can have we are not curious to enquire when we know that he holds, contrary to what was once said on Mars' Hill, that "God hath created of one blood, all men to dwell upon the earth."

ARABI'S FATE.

Desporate attempts are being made by some of the Egyptian ministers to secure the execution of Arabi and the other leaders of the late rebellion against the Khedive's authority. Even although he is sentenced to death it is questionable whether Britain will permit his execution. Intimation has been given to the Khedive's government that no execution can take place without the sanction of the British government. There is a strong feeling against punishment by death in the old country, except in cases of a very aggravated character. If Arabi fought from motives of patriotism—which is quite possible—his life ought to be spared, but if the rebellion against constituted authority originated in personal ambition death ought to be the penalty.

Judas, or the Secret Pamphlet.

TO THE EDITOR:—Why did Senator Macdonald in taking Bishop Ridley to task for the ill-conditioned and secret pamphlet not quote the following extract from the Bishop's letter written to Mr. Duncan last May and commencing with brotherly love, thus: "My dear Mr. Dûncan.

I shall gladly welcome you to this house,
Where I am a visitor, and shall spare
No personal sacrifice to minimize
Our mutual difficulties.

Signed, W. Caledonia.

In the pamphlet it is denied that Mr. Duncan was ever asked to come back. If that is the case, what can the meaning of the above extract be? Who will explain? If Mr. Duncan is the cruel and immoral person depicted in the pamphlet, how can a man with such a high sense of honor as the writer of the pamphlet beg so humbly for his friendship? Is it from an exuberance of the Christian love we see displayed in the pamphlet? Or has it a more subtle meaning?

"Yet I cannot suffer our personal
Relationship to burst asunder
Without another effort to prevent it."

All the catalogue of offences enumerated in the pamphlet would evidently have been condoned, and would have remained unexposed had Mr. Duncan bowed down to W. Caledonia.

How do the above extracts correspond with the language of the pamphlet?

Z. BROWN, Jr.

Creek vs. Chinaman.

TO THE EDITOR:—This evenings Post contains an account of the proceedings in the police court before Hon. Mr. Pemberton, in the case of Creek vs. Chinaman and it only fulfils the freely expressed opinion of a large number of eyewitnesses that it mattered not what the evidence brought forth might be, the "white" is sure to be found in the wrong.

I was not a witness to the broil on the 8th inst., although not fifty yards away, and heard the statements of all sides while the excitement was warm. If ever a case of misjudgment occurred according to the evidence, this is the most palpable.

THOMAS HARMAN,
Submarine diver,
An old man-of-war's man.

A Reporter's Mistake.

TO THE EDITOR: In your issue of last Saturday there appeared an item about our schools, confessedly founded on rumor. Next day you had the matter firmly in the hands of trustees; and this morning you have disposed of it to your own satisfaction.

Allow me to announce briefly that the boy alluded to was simply placed in his own room before the opening of the school for investigation; that neither he nor any other person present received or gave a blow; that the matter never went before the trustees; that no MUTUAL apologies were given. Sifted to the bottom it stands simply thus: The boy having been advised to go home, by a relative under excitement, jumped out of the window and took his departure for further instructions. JOHN MCKENZIE,
Prin. Boys' Public School.

VICTORIA, Nov. 10, 1882.

The $1000 Suit.

TO THE EDITOR:—The item in yesterday's issue of your paper headed "A $1000 Damages" re school trustees is incorrect, inasmuch as the school trustees act always in accord, especially in connection with the school reserve.

A CARD.

TO THE EDITOR:—YOUR PARAGRAPH HEADED "Free Fight" gives me pain. I have lived here two years respectably and I challenge any man to say anything bad against me. You say I "talked back" to the sailor who struck me. I did not. I had 20 $20 pieces in my right hand which I was on my way to pay to Mr. Story, when the sailor came up and asked me what I had in my hand? I said, "money." He said, "give me some." I said, "no." He insisted, caught me by the throat, struck me. Another Chinaman came up and assel the sailor what he strik Ie me for? The sailor struck him and I hollered, "Police!" Then the policeman came. The rest of your paragraph is correct.

Yours respectfully, LIM SAM,

The sailing of the steamer Victoria from San Francisco has been postponed until 14th inst. at 2 p.m.

PERSONAL.—Among the arrivals from Liverpool is Mr. Richard Janion, of the firm of R. C. Janion. Mr. J. made an exceedingly quick trip from Liverpool to Victoria and will remain but a few days here. Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Gordon arrived by the Puget Sound steamer on Thursday. Mr. Gordon is treasurer of the Hamilton Powder Co. and until lately one of Montreal's most enterprising citizens. He will represent the interests of that flourishing company in this province where he proposes to reside permanently.

What Some People Say.

That in a brick building on Cormorant street Chinese gambling is conducted nightly. If one does not mind a greasy crowd and a stuffy smell the scene will repay a visit.

That there are two Chinese theatres in full operation in the city. A vigorous opposition is maintained. The new theatre draws the aristocrats of Chinese society. The old structure on Store street attracts the coolie crowd.

That were it not for the incessant din which the bands make, and which the Johns regard as the finest possible music, the pantomime would be interesting.

That we have a bone to pick with the Post. To which city newspaper does it refer when it asserts that a circulation which is claimed to be the largest in the province is "only 380, deadheads and all."

That The Colonist has the largest circulation; and distributes daily nearly 1000 copies. Our contemporary owes us and the public an explanation. If there exists a newspaper in this city that maintains that it has the largest circulation with a slender claim of "380, deadheads and all," it should be named.

That a new style of landau with a gentleman whip and footman has been introduced into this city. The first vehicle of the new style went to and returned from Esquimalt yesterday. It looked nobby, ditto the handsome driver and his equally good looking attendant.

That Hon. P. O'Reilly sailed for England yesterday. He is slowly recovering from his recent accident.

That Mr. Richard Janion was warmly greeted by his host of old friends in this city.

That the improvement in house property and realestate values is day by day more manifest.

That realestate finds many would-be buyers, but few who desire to sell at present prices.

That tradition says that 40 years ago an Indian chief fell into a well on the site of the old theatre and was drowned. His disappearance caused a great tribal commotion at the time and there was nearly a war; but blankets settled the matter and the well was filled up. The workmen digging there have found the well and propose to fish for poor Lo!

That joy-bells were rung at Christ Church Cathedral on Thursday morning, when Thomas Henry Rolfe, the governor-general's valet, and Miss Vieillard, the Princess Louise's lady's maid, joined hands and were made one flesh.

That in the morning amid a shower of rice and old shoes the happy pair left for "England, Home and Beauty."

That we have one objection to their departure to urge, which is this: They should have staid to assist the incoming government to populate this "glorious province."

That the weather continues clear, frosty and bright. A real old fashioned Indian summer which nowhere else in this world is as lovely as in this favored spot.

That the telegraph and telephone offices have each a miss in charge; and yet mistakes there are surprisingly few. In fact, nothing is ever missed there except the young ladies.

That Mr. John McKenzie's explanation of the late school difficulty is eminently satisfactory.

That ugly rumors are afloat respecting the original McNamee contract and the mode in which it was let.

That a committee of the new house will lift the veil which has always shrouded that dubious transaction from public ken.

That a consistently pious man can be trusted with untold gold; but the scamp who drags religion into politics and sneers at professing Christians could not be trusted out of sight with a bull pup. He would either sell the animal for a money consideration or barter it for a bottle of forty-rod whiskey.

That Leoni, King of the Air, will gyrate on the high tight rope at 2:30 this afternoon. Everyone should see this remarkable man's performance.

That the assembly ball will be a pleasant and brilliant affair.

That the scarcity of labor has infected the poultry yard.

That hens have struck for six bits a dozen.

That cows will shortly follow with a demand for 20 cents a quart.

That, is it possible that S. L. Kelly & Co. have a contract from A. Onderdonk & Co. for one thousand Chinese stoves and 2500 joints of pipe? *

That ladies of the Methodist Church intend giving a sociable in the lecture room Tuesday, 14th. Admission, 25 cents, including refreshments. Doors open at 7; programme at 7:30. *

Habeas Corpus.

Some time since nine of the crew of the barque Latona from Shanghai, lying at Esquimalt, were brought before William Fisher, J.P., charged with refusing to do duty and sent to jail for three months. Among these sailors, was a young man named Fitzgerald, who seemed to be something of a sea lawyer, and while the men were in jail Fitzgerald brought a charge of assault at the police court against the second mate of the Latona, which, though generally corroborated by the rest of the crew, was adjudged to be rebutted by the evidence of the captain and mate, and the case was dismissed. The men have been in gaol since, serving out their term; but yesterday at noon Fitzgerald had himself brought up before Mr. Justice McCreight on a writ of habeas corpus, and after a long argument by his counsel, Mr. T. Davie, he was discharged from custody and brought back to gaol to go through the requisite formalities. At 5 o'clock he issued from the gaol, no doubt glad to find himself a free man; but what was his surprise to see his old friend constable Campbell, of Esquimalt, with a horse and carriage waiting at the gaol door. The constable informed him that he had a warrant against him for "continued neglect of duty," and that he had the option of going to his ship or standing another trial at Esquimalt. Fitzgerald quietly remarked, "it was rather hard," but held out his hands for the handcuffs, jumped into the buggy and was driven off to try his fortune once more. To-day the remaining eight of the crew will be brought before Mr. Justice McCreight on writs of habeas corpus, and as their cases are similar to Fitzgerald's they will probably be discharged, though whether constable Campbell will be waiting for them is a matter best known to himself.

THE horse race that was to take place on Thursday at Beacon Hill Park, will take place to-day (Saturday, Nov. 11th.) Leoni King of the Air, will also give another of his daring exhibitions at the same place at 2:30 p.m. *

THE s.s. Elder, with the mails and a large passenger list, sailed at 12 m. yesterday for San Francisco.

ARCTIC EXPLORATION.

THE CORWIN'S CRUISE.

INTERESTING ITEMS OF THE TRIP.

Alaska Indian Difficulty.

On Thursday afternoon last the U. S. steamer Corwin, Commander Healey, arrived in Esquimalt harbor from her second cruise in the Arctic seas since last spring. The following interesting particulars of her last cruise were furnished per favor of Commander Healey and Mr. Doty who were kindness and courtesy personified on board the neat and trim little cutter that has done such good service in rescuing the crew of the ill-fated Jeannette searching steamer Rodgers, and afterwards ascertaining what had become of the only man lost through the burning of that unfortunate vessel:

It will be fresh in the recollection of our readers that the Corwin was ordered north by telegraph from Washington in the latter part of April last and that she and her gallent crew penetrated vast fields of Arctic ice and ultimately rescued the Rodgers people who were found among the Esquimaux of Eastern Siberia where they had been subsisting on bad blubber and all sorts of disgusting food through the long preceding winter since their ship was burned by spontaneous combustion in St. Lawrence Bay. The Corwin reached San Francisco again on the 23d June. She had not been many days in port before another telegram was forwarded from the Secretary of the Navy at Washington ordering her to retrace her course back to St. Lawrence Bay and the Siberian coast to ascertain the fate of Master C. F. Putman who, when the Rodgers' crew escaped to shore was blown out to sea on an ice floe and of whom no tidings had been received by his brother officers and ship mates. Early in August the Corwin was again north of the Arctic circle where it was ascertained that some Esquimaux about the time that the crew was rescued on her former trip had seen the body of a naval officer which had drifted back into St. Lawrence Bay on the ice; and that close to his remains were the skeleton of his dog, a revolver and a broken dog sled, but that they did not disturb anything. The body was much swollen and had evidently been dead for a long time. No doubt could be ascertained as to the fate of the unfortunate gentleman who had met with his death from exposure, thirst and starvation.

Having carried out this part of his instructions Commander Healey continued his cruise through Behrings strait for the purpose of taking astronomical observations and making a survey of those compartively unknown waters. The most northern point touched was about 30 miles north of Cape Barrow the most northernmost point of the mainland of North America in lat. 71° 46'. Here the cutter was stopped by the ice pack off the mouth of the great Mackenzie River and within six miles of Return Reef where Sir John Franklin returned homeward after penetrating thus far from the East in 1828. The Corwin people therefore following Sir Robert McClure have again demonstrated that a northwest passage from the Atlantic to the Pacific does exist.

At Cape Lisborne in lat. 69° 6' a splendid seam of bituminous coal eight feet in thickness and of superior quality was found. Here the cutter was coaled and found to answer admirably for steaming purposes, burning well, but, as must be expected coming from the surface, with considerable ash and dirt. Signs of coal were observed in many other localities in this far-off region.

During the last week in August the Corwin stood away for the southwest and entered Alaskan waters early in September. Every settlement in the Territory was visited and numerous little difficulties arranged in the absence of a proper territorial government. She visited the Seal Islands where 100,000 seals are annually caught. Coaled again at Ounalaska, called at Kodiac and arrived at Sitka on the 13th October. The U. S. S. Adams was lying at that port.

On the 23d Mr. Vanderbilt the agent of the North West Trading Company at Killsenoo arrived at Sitka with his wife and family with the intelligence that Indians at Hootsenoo, a village near the post, had taken possession of the company's fishing boats and held some white men as prisoners. They demanded 200 blankets for their release, threatening that if this demand were not complied with they would burn the company's buildings and commit other depredations. Capt. Merriman of the Adams as senior officer consulted with Commander Healey and they decided on the 24th ult. to take the Corwin and a little steam tug called the Favorite to the scene of the difficulty which they arrived on the morning of the 26th. It was then found that the troublesome Indians had made their escape into a large lagoon back of their village, taking with them the two white prisoners. The cutter immediately started for this lagoon, piloted by a friendly Indian. Here sailors and marines from the Corwin and Favorite were landed and they took immediate possession of the fishing village to which the troublesome natives had retired. The prisoners were rescued, the stolen property was recovered and the ringleaders taken on board. A powwow was then held with the chiefs and Captains Merriman and Healey decided that the punishment to be inflicted upon the refractory tribes should be a fine of 400 blankets with the destruction of their canoes. Twenty-four hours were given them to comply with the demand; alternative of non-compliance being the shelling and burning of their village. These terms not being carried out the canoes were chopped to pieces on the following day the 26th and at 2 p.m. the cutter anchored off the village and bombarded it. A force of sailors and marines then landed under cover of the vessels' guns and set fire to the rancherie in several places. As soon as the shelling commenced the hostile Indians all fled to the woods carrying with them as much of their stuff as possible. A few of the friendly ones, however, stayed behind unmolested and their houses were left standing.

A small trading schooner had been selling whiskey to the Indians along the shore of the Arctic ocean. The cutter heard of her presence and started after the schooner. But the latter evaded arrest by seeking the shallow water of McKenzie River where the cutter was unable to follow her.

After coaling at Sitka the Corwin stood away for San Francisco calling at Wrangel. She arrived at Nanaimo on the 6th inst. and after coaling reached Esquimalt in time on the 9th to hoist her bunting in honor of Prince of Wales birthday. Mr. J. H. Douglas, the old and experienced Alaska pilot has been on board since she started on her first trip to those northern waters.

The following is the list of officers of M. S. S. Corwin:

M A Healey	Lt. Commander
O S Willey	2nd Lt. Executive officer
W E Rignold	3d Lt. Navigator
G H Doty	3rd Lieutenant
J E Lutz	3rd Lieutenant

Municipal Police Court.

(Before Hon. A. F. Pemberton.)

FRIDAY, Nov. 10, 1882.

Two Indians—a man and woman—were charged with being drunk and disorderly and fined 5s. or six days each.

A white man, on a similar charge, incurred a like fine with the addition of $1 cost of arrest, and another white man on the same charge forfeited his recognizances, amounting to $5 with $1 costs.

INDIAN LIQUOR LAW.

Mack, a Fort Rupert Indian, charged with having an intoxicant in his possession was discharged.

Thomas Stark was charged with having on the 8th November supplied Mack, a Fort Rupert Indian, with an intoxicant.

The prisoner pleaded guilty and was remanded.

Edward, an Indian, was also charged with being in possession of an intoxicant and was discharged.

Frank Clark was charged with supplying the Indian, Edward with liquor on the 8th day of November on Cormorant street.

The prisoner pleaded guilty and was remanded till Monday.

DISTURBING THE PEACE.

Lin Sam, Ah Lott and John Creek a seaman of the Comus, were charged with disturbing the peace by fighting on Government street on the 8th inst.

Mr. Wilson, on behalf of Mr. T. Davie, appeared for Ah Sam and Mr. Downey, from the office of Drake & Jackson, for Ah Lett. The case was a very long one, and as the facts have already appeared it will only be necessary to give the evidence of the officer making the arrest and of the principals themselves.

Officer Flewin stated he was on duty on Wednesday last at the corner by the San Francisco saloon about 2:30, he heard a shouting in the direction of Lange's jewellery shop. He ran down Government street and saw Ah Lett and John Creek, a seaman of the Comus fighting. Lim Sam was standing by; he separated combatants and had to push Ah Lett back twice before he would desist.

The other witnesses called were Rowland Green, Mr. Lange, Mr. Garnett, Charles Robinson and Patrick Sparks, seamen from H.M.S. Comus.

Lim Sam, one of the accused, stated that on Wednesday afternoon about three o'clock he promised to pay Mr. Storey $400 but as he did not come to his store witness took the money to him. He went into a jeweller's store for his watch. After talking to Mr. Lange a few minutes he came out on the sidewalk and met a number of sailors. Some passed on the left hand side, but Creek came against him. He saw witness's right hand full of coin, and he asked him "where you get the money? Then he speak to witness "I want some," after which he stopped him. Witness pushed him away with his left hand. Creek took hold of his coat and struck him twice in the mouth so that blood came. Ah Lett then came across the street and separated witness and Creek. Creek would not let witness pass, and struck Ah Lett, after which the two fought together. When the officer came witness asked him to arrest the sailor, which he did. Witness told the policeman that the sailor wanted to take his money away.

Ah Lett sworn—Stated that on Wednesday last he came out of Mr. Drake's office and saw Creek and a Chinaman fighting on Government street. He went to separate them. He had a basket in one hand and a tin can for milk in the other. Creek struck him first. He put down the basket and they fought together. Mr. Drake gave witness $26 to pay the grocery bill; of this witness lost $21. The money was in his left hand vest pocket and it may have rolled out when he was on the sidewalk.

John Creek, sworn—I was coming from the Park Hotel. I met two Chinamen parallel with each other. I said to one "Hillao Johnny, where do you belong—Amoy?" He never answered me, but struck me a back-handed blow across the face. I retreated back from him laughing. He seized me with both hands by the guernsey, at the same time the other Chinaman, Ah Lett, struck at me with a pannikin. I kept them off the best I could, when I received another blow on the face from Ah Lett. I got away from Lim Sam and struck the other two blows, he going for me at the same time. Neither of us fell and only one Chinaman closed with me. I saw no money. Amoy is the name of a port in China.

Mr. Wilson and Mr. Downie briefly addressed the court on behalf of their respective clients, pointing out some discrepancies in the evidence, but admitting the affair had probably arisen from a misunderstanding.

Supt. O'Connor said the men from the Comus bore excellent characters, that Lim Sam and Ah Lett were both respectable men.

His honor thought the whole matter had arisen out of a practical joke on the part of the sailor, and that Lim Sam thought that he meant to relieve him of his money. He would therefore only inflict a small fine of $5 on Creek with $2 50 costs.

STOLEN GOODS.

Jim, a Sitka Indian, was charged with being in possession of a pair of gum boots knowing the same to have been stolen.

The case was remanded until to-morrow.

The case of Ah Fou charged with being in possession of spoons stolen from the Driard house was remanded till Monday.

SPECIAL COMMITTEE MEETING.—A meeting of a special committee, consisting of Councillors Baker, Shears, Kinsman and Warren, was held last evening at the City Hall to enquire into the circumstances connected with the Driard House fire. The secretary of the board of delegates and the chief engineer of the fire department gave in their evidence and underwent an exhaustive examination. His worship the mayor was confined to his house by indisposition. The committee adjourned to Monday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

TREASURE shipped by Wells-Fargo per Geo. W. Elder:—Garesché, Green & Co., $18,751; Bank British Columbia, $6,633; Bank B. C. (five cent pieces) $9,000. Total, $34,384.

Down a Well.

The wife of a citizen who resides on Douglas north of Herald street, had a narrow escape from drowning last evening during the absence of her husband. About five o'clock while walking in the backyard she stepped into an open well. Just fancy an open well being maintained in this civilized city! The well was about four and a-half feet deep and there the poor woman remained immersed to her neck, holding on to the side of the well with her hands and screaming for help till a quarter to six o'clock. At that time a neighbor heard her cries and ran to her assistance. After great difficulty he managed, with other help which he summoned, to drag her out. By this time she had swooned and Dr. Milne was sent for. The usual restoratives were applied and she soon came to. If no ill effects should result from the exposure the woman will be all right in a day or two. Need we say a word in favor of the closing of every open well within the city limits? We believe there is a bylaw which makes it a misdemeanor to maintain an unprotected well.

Sad Death.

Henry William, aged 17, second son of Mr. Charles Hayward of this city, died yesterday after a brief illness, in spite of the best medical attention and the tender care of loving parents and other relatives. The deceased was one of the most promising youths is the province; industrious, intelligent and amiable, he was beloved by all who knew him. A graduate of the high school with honors, immediately on leaving that institution he entered the employment of Mr. Baker, M. P., to whom, by devotion to duty and great intelligence, he had just rendered himself invaluable, when he was snatched away. The death of no young person in this city is more regretted than that of poor "Willie" Hayward. It may be consolation to the stricken family to know that in their deep grief they have the deep sympathy of their fellowtownsmen.

FINANCIAL COLLAPSE IN SOUTH AFRICA.—Reports from South Africa tell of a financial collapse arising out of the mania for ostrich farms, which took possession some time ago of all sorts of members of the community. Those who could not pay cash gave bills that were discounted by the banks, but the bills fell due before the feathers were grown, and birds bought for $500 a pair were sold for $150 or less. Besides this, heavy sums have been lost in diamond speculations.

"THE MAGIC DOLL," a musical extravaganza, by the author of the American Prince of Comedy writer, W. E. Woolfe of "The Mighty Dollar" fame, will be Mr. Steckhan's next attraction. The company will open at Philharmonic Hall next Thursday evening. The entire press of America give this troupe the most favorable notices and we predict crowded houses for them during their stay here.

THE DON ENRIQUE.—Mr. Harman, the submarine diver, has mastered the leak in the barque Don Enrique's bottom. The defective spot is near the keel and the situation of the diver while under water is both trying and dangerous. Mr. Harmon expects to get her off his hands in about a week.

GREAT ATTRACTION.—Everybody will be at Beacon Hill Park to-day, Saturday Nov. 11th to witness Leoni, King of the Air's last performance on the high tight rope. It is really worth something going to see. *

MONEY FOUND.—The money stated to have been lost by Ah Lett during the fight with the bluejacket on Government street, amounting to $21, was found by a boy and has been handed to Mr. Drake, to whom it belonged.

THE JAIL.—The are at present 45 prisoners in jail, 11 of whom are committed for trial.

DR. J. COLLIS BROWNE'S

CHLORODYNE

THE ORIGINAL AND ONLY GENUINE.

Advice to Invalids—If you wish to obtain quiet, refreshing sleep, free from headache, relief from pain and anguish, to calm and assuage the weary achings of protracted disease, invigorate the nervous media, and regulate the circulating systems of the body, you will provide yourself with that marvellous remedy discovered by Dr. J. Collis Browne (late Army Medical Staff), to which he gave the name of CHLORODYNE and which is admitted by the profession to be the most wonderful and valuable remedy ever discovered.

CHLORODYNE is the best remedy known for Coughs, Consumption, Bronchitis, Asthma.

CHLORODYNE acts like a charm in Diarrhœa, and is the only specific in Cholera and Dysentery.

CHLORODYNE effectually cuts short all attacks of Epilepsy, Hysteria, Palpitation, and Spasms.

CHLORODYNE is the only palliative in Neuralgia Rheumatism, Gout, Cancer, Toothache, Meningitis &c.

"From Symes & Co., Pharmaceutical Chemists, Medical Hall, Simla, January 5th, 1880. To J. T. Davenport, Esq., 33, Great Russell street, Bloomsbury, London. Dear Sir,—We embrace this opportunity of congratulating you upon the wide-spread reputation this justly esteemed medicine, Dr. J. Collis Browne's Chlorodyne, has earned for itself, not only in Hindostan, but all over the East. As a remedy of general utility, we much question whether a better is imported into the country, and we shall be glad to hear of its finding a place in every Anglo-Indian home. The other brands, we are happy to say, are now relegated to the native bazaars, and, judging from their sale, we fancy their sojourn there will be but evanescent. We could multiply instances ad infinitum of the extraordinary efficacy of Dr. Collis Browne's Chlorodyne in Diarrhœa and Dysentery, Spasms, Cramps, Neuralgia, the Vomiting of Pregnancy and as a general sedative, that have occurred under our personal observation during many years. In Choleraic Diarrhœa, and even in the more terrible forms of Cholera itself, we have witnessed its surprisingly controlling power. We have never used any other form of this medicine than Collis Browne's, from a firm conviction that it is decidedly the best, and also from a sense of duty we owe to the profession and the public, as we are of opinion that the substitution of any other than Collis Browne's is a DELIBERATE BREACH OF FAITH ON THE PART OF THE CHEMIST TO PRESCRIBER AND PATIENT ALIKE. We are, Sir, faithfully yours, Symes & Co., Members of the Pharm. Society of Great Britain, His Excellency the Viceroy's Chemists.

CAUTION.—Vice-Chancellor Sir W. Page Wood stated that Dr. J. Collis Browne was undoubtedly the Inventor of Chlorodyne; that the story of the defendant Freeman was deliberately untrue, which, he regretted to say, had been sworn to.—See "The Times," July 13, 1864.

Sold in bottles at 1s. 1½d., 2s. 9d., 4s 6d and 11s. each. None is genuine without the words "Dr. J Collis Browne's Chlorodyne" on the Government stamp. Overwhelming medical testimony accompanies each bottle.

Caution—Beware of Piracy and Imitations.
